CITY & NEWS ITEMS

THURSDAY MORNING, OCT. 7, 1886.

COUNTY FAIR.—Yesterday proved to be as bright and pleasant as its predecessor, and crowds of country visitors and exhibitors filled the fair grounds, which were in good condition for the "entertainment of man and beast," the entertainment of the former being in looking up the articles exhibited by others, and that of the latter consisting of lying or standing in the stalls, and eating hay, straw or "corn fodder." The number of visitors were largely increased yesterday morning, and the day opened with a good prospect of the most successful and largely attended Fair ever held in the County.

A tall flag staff had been erected at the Jodges' stand inside the ring, from which the stars and stripes waved merrily; new stalls and pens had been put up, many new poultry coops had been furnished, and the whole grounds had been improved from Tuesday's condition.

No regular order of exercises has been arranged for the different days, but visitors must be on hand and catch the attractions as they fly. We found the grounds well filled with useful and ornamental articles, and regret that we cannot mention all of which were worthy of note.

In the Farming Implement Department, the exhibition was highly creditable to our manufacturers. Messrs. Baldwin, DeWitt & Co., had an extensive variety of implements and farming machines, among which their Mamy's Combined Reaper and Mower was the leading feature, but by no means the only thing deserving of mention. A farm might be supplied with almost all necessary tools from their warehouse.

Messrs. N. C. Pepper & Co. had on exhibition an almost endless variety of Plows, Straw Cutters, Churns, &c., comprising almost everything from a Patent Apple Parer and Slicer, to a Subsoil Plow.

In this department B. Martin & Co. have a large number of all manner of implements to save labor and facilitate operations on the farm.

Caleb Turner exhibited his Garden Engine, which took the first premium at Sandusky, and another one similar.

"The Ladies' Delight," and other washing machines were under constant inspection of those who knew the blessings such machines would confer upon the "weaker vessel."

The improved Metal Carriage Hub was upon the ground and was much admired for its lightness and strength.

Stanley & Irwin's Portable Grist Mill ground out the corn meal with apparently as little effort as water would do it.

Charles Douglas had on exhibition a patent chimney top for the prevention of smoky chimneys, with the introduction of which, we should judge, soot eyes would bid farewell, and smoky evenings would be no more.

Two most beautiful gowns were shown by R.
Jennings, which gowns and gartered too much to allow of their being passed by unnoticed.

The neat, simple and convenient window spring, to take the place of the pulley and wheel, and patented, were told by the exhibitors, Messrs. Abbott & Horton, were much pleased with. It seems much preferable to the usual style of window fastening.

Thatcher & Horton's Folding Gate, and A.
A. Harris' Clothes Dryer, were objects of much attention and were generally approved.

Passing into the General Hall, are elegantly ornamented single harness from John A. Harnot was very attractive and elicited much praise.

J. W. Spaulding, who took the first premium at Sandusky on Oil Cloth, exhibits two fine specimens of his work.

Messrs. Patton & Smith, and T. P. Spencer are on hand with soap enough to wash away all other competitors.

In the Fruit line, no names were attached to the greater part of the samples, so we could not learn the owners, but some noble specimens of Apples, Quinces and Grapes were spread out temptingly on the table. Mrs. Wm. Smyth's name was upon several of the finest displays of Grapes, and we learned that some of the other fine samples belonged to A. W. Harburt, Esq.

In the show of vegetables, this Fair is much in advance of the late State Fair. Mr. John Marshall here exhibits Mammoth Cabbages nearly large enough for a family to eat from all the winter and use the shell for a store house in the spring; squashes from which the Cush Army would shrink appalled; caryots ripened ears of corn; beans that can't be beat; peas that would hardly be got into an ordinary cellar; pumpkins that would make Washington blush for shame; turnips too large to turn up the nose at; corn, on which we should have no hesitation in getting around; pie plant which should be "knocked into pie," and other varieties too large and numerous to speak of, especially one pumpkin which weighs 67 lbs. Other exhibitors also have most splendid collections of vegetables, but we know the names of but few. Mr. E. S. Willard has one immense squash which weighs 176 lbs. Can this be beat? R. H. Blackmer has ten long Valparaiso squashes, raised from one seed. A fine lot of Lake Superior Vegetables are exhibited which show that cold in that region expands instead of contracts.

S. B. Shaw, of East Cleveland, has the only specimen of Sorghum Syrup on the grounds.

Several hives of bees, bay in the manufacture of honey, fill one corner of the Hall. While examining their work, we were told to "handle things in the rest of the hall, but to let that corner be."

We turned in time to see Dodge pass around the building.

Of Apples, Dr. Kirland presents a large number of varieties, and some other exhibitors have also fine specimens of large, noble fruits.

Messrs. Friese & Stephens show a large number of cans of coffee and apples which send forth odors like those from "Araby the best."

Benjamin & Co. have a beautiful collection of flowers in pots, comprising a great many varieties, which is one of the principal attractions of the Hall. Both beautiful and fragrant, these are the source of much pleasure. They have also some fine show cases of verbenas, dahlias and roses.

H. H. Hubert, Esq., has also a most artificially arranged case of 50 varieties of Dahlias which are preserved as fresh as if on the stems by means of small bottles of water underneath a bed of moss. J. Gallup adds to the list a "Victorian Triumph" Dahlia about ten feet high, with numerous flowers upon it.

But should we stop to particularize all the articles which pleased us, we should never get to Fine Art Hall, to the Stock Pens or the Chicken Coops.

In Fine Art Hall, at the right of the entrance, Ryder has a fine collection of plain and colored Photographs which took three medals and other prizes at the State Fair. His arrangement is good and his pictures faultless. Then comes a series of landscape and other drawings from the hand of Miss C. Hopely which attract deserved attention; then pencil and crayon drawings from various contributors, with various degrees of excellence. Some spirited drawings of the noted horses, "Flora Temple," "Fashion," "Lady Suffolk," "Lexington," &c., by S.
Howlett, are very well done.

Cases of Hair Work, Worsteds, Embroidery, Shell Baskets, Sea Mosses, &c., &c., fill up the walls on this side the Hall; on the other side William C. North has a brilliant display of plain Photographs, which gallery of art attracts much attention. W. C. North & Simpson's Ambrotypes fill up the remainder of the side, excepting the space occupied by four specimens of Pennamouth from Hollister, Felton & Townsend's Commercial College. These last are very fine, and one in particular is filled with the most delicate representations of agricultural implements and products, showing untiring perseverance and unerring skill in its execution.

M. L. Wright & Co. have a case of their justly celebrated Porcelain Teeth with the silver medal from the State Board, and J. Koch a case of fine looking Mineral Teeth.
